A Story of History, Hope, and the Renovation of a Beloved Century-Old Bridge: How Sarens is Making a Difference

At Sarens, we don't just imagine it: we design innovative solutions that make it possible. When our client, Eiffage Métal, set out to remove and renovate the Pont Colbert bridge in Dieppe, France, it was the start of a sophisticated operation involving complex calculations, jacking towers, SPMTs, supports, load spreading mats, a barge, bridges, winches and ballast pumps.

Under Live Plant Conditions and Tight Space, Sarens Replaces 80-Years Old Overhead Service Crane Beams in Canada

Sarens worked at the Pine Portage Generating Station in Ontario, Canada to replace two overhead service crane beams. We were asked by our client to replace two overhead service crane beams installed in the 1940s. The biggest challenge was to work in a confined space with live equipment and limited information about the weight of the components to be removed.
